

The Bhagavad-Gita is one, and the 700 verses that it contains are the same, but there are hundreds of commentaries and editions of this Book. Why, then, do we need this new commentary and edition? This is a question that needs to be answered. The biggest feature of this commentary is that it makes the thoughts of the Holy Geeta so intelligible. Such an easy-to-understand edition has never been seen before. There are many other features of this edition that are hard to find in any other. Some of them are as follows:

- Chapter-Introduction– In order to facilitate the understanding of the chapters, in this edition a brief and critical introduction to the ideas presented in every chapter is given before all 18 chapters.
- Self-Assessment Questionnaires– It contains eight self-assessment questionnaires to measure your spiritual progress without anyone else's help.
- Pictures– Dozens of pictures attempt to clarify the thoughts of the Bhagavad-Gita.
- Emotional Guidance– This version also provides for emotional guidance. This segment can help you find out which verses can help you to overcome or handle your emotional crises, such as grieving the death of a loved one, fear of death, depression, miserable life, misdirected carnal desire and heightened anger etc.
- Thought Index– In this section important topics are indexed and references to all the verses related to them have been collected at one place. Through it, verses scattered over various chapters on any subject can be immediately accessed.
- Egalitarianism– In the Bhagavad-Gita God has asked to be equally well disposed towards a knowledgeable Brahmin and manual worker Shudra (5:18). Therefore, the Bhagavad-Gita is free from the lowly idea of caste-discrimination and caste-hierarchy, and so is this version.
- Introduction of the Ten Pathways to God and Nirvana– The paths ('yogas') mentioned in the Holy Gita to attain salvation or heaven are separately delineated in detail in this book with all the verses related to them put in one place, so that the readers could understand all of them clearly and choose anyone of them to proceed in their spiritual journey with sufficient mental clarity.
- Gita Cream Verses - 51 'Gita Navneet' verses for regular recitation by the general readers and 108 verses for the slightly advanced spiritual seekers are given at the end of the book called 'Spiritual Cream of the Bhagavad-Gita'.

Let's Deliver the Bhagavad-Gita to 20 Million Homes

Collapse of moral values, violation of all kinds of dignity in all the different domains, violence and terror, corruption, insensitivity to the misery of others, modern generations living in disgust of religions due to strange behavior of their followers and strange utterances in their scriptures, lack of proper guidance to youth, diminishing light of Indianness amidst the spread of foreign cultures, lack of knowledge and awareness of indigenous religions amidst aggressive expansion of foreign Faiths, geographical, numerical and qualitative erosion of Indian religions, repression of women...

The Bhagavad-Gita offers far-reaching solutions to the many concerns of the society and nation in just 700 verses, and offers guidance for attainment of all-round happiness, from material to spiritual.

Let us deliver the Holy Gita to 200 million homes in India, and another 100 million homes across the globe, and save our religion from being uprooted from our own soil!

Time has come to return to religion that suits an evolved humanity...

There are very few scriptures that have been praised by some of the world's best scientists, intellectuals and philosophers. The Bhagavad-Gita is one such Book. Anyone can go to Google and type 'In praise of the Bhagavad-Gita' and after examining the results, instead of Bhagavad-Gita, type the names of the other famous Holy Books one by one, and then see the results. This will bring clarity immediately.

Falling character-levels all over the world, increasing inclination towards material pleasures to the exclusion of all other forms of happiness, self-centred lifestyles, disillusionment of the youth with the established religions and their scriptures that contain serious flaws including grossly unethical pronouncements, terrorism and violence, violation of human rights and oversight of animal rights, global warming and fast depletion of natural resources due to rabid consumerism are causing concern world-wide. The unprecedented mutation of human mind is behind all these phenomena.

If from any Book the light of hope arises of illuminating the human consciousness and taking it in the right direction, it is the Bhagavad-Gita. It is the only Book in the world among the more widely circulated and famous ones, in which God does not intimidate and talk like a military dictator, but argues, and after expressing His opinion, He tells humanity, 'Now you may do as you wish—yatha ichhasi tatha kuru! It is the only scripture that does not forbid questioning but encourages asking questions for enlightenment—..pariprashnen sevaya. If there is one Book for the evolved humanity of today that runs on logic, it is the Bhagavad-Gita. If there is one Book in the world that can quench the spiritual thirst of mankind, it is the Bhagavad-Gita. Let us know more about this Book and become partners in its promotion.
